Inform. Educate. Inspire.

June 2013

Congratulations on winning the Intel Excellence in Computer Science Award! We at Intel are especially pleased to have the opportunity to recognize and reward your outstanding work in this critical area of science research and study. Please find enclosed your award of $200.

Computer Science is one of today's fastest growing fields and an important source of innovation for the 21st century. Countless professionals in the field can tell you what an exciting path you have embarked upon. We are proud to recognize your achievement, and – in our own self interest as well as your own! - encourage you to continue your studies in this field.
